Colin Taylor's trip to the North Cotswolds

Twenty of us visited the North Cotswolds for a day of ringing starting with the two eight-bell towers at Chipping Campden (8) and Blockley (8).

We were able to ring call changes and worked up to touches of Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major.

Our Chipping Campden host, John Nicholls, who rang with us in the tower, told the story of the time he had been invited to join Westminster

Chipping Campden

Blockley

Abbey ringers in their belfry. 'How long have you been ringing?' asked the Tower Captain. John replied 'twenty nine years'. The response came: 'Join us in some call changes and plain hunt.'

The Blockley Café seemed a popular choice for lunch, and we went on to ring at Bourton-on-the-Hill (6) and Long Compton (6) in Warwickshire. Both six-bell towers looked marvellous in the sunshine. In the belfries the less experienced ringers learnt a lot about bells with attitude, and in the Warwickshire church about controlling bells with long ropes. Finally, Ann, a Charlbury ringer, capped a delightful day by serving us generous portions of chocolate cake eaten in the sunshine beside the SS Peter & Paul lych-gate. I think everyone who came along enjoyed themselves. Colin Taylor

Our Regular Bank Holiday Practice at Chilton (6) on 28th March 2016

Rather like Easter egg hunts have gained tradition-like status on an Easter Monday so has travelling down to Chilton for the first of our visits during the year. The weather on this first foray is seldom a harbinger of Spring, and indeed we were fortunate to have our morning in the calm after Storm Katie the night before, but the good turnout we had once again always puts us in good heart. We managed to fit in four different doubles and five different minor methods into our ninety minutes and once again we are indebted to Kate and David from Chilton tower for allowing us the use of their wonderful bells. Hugh Deam

Hugh's 2,000th Quarter Peal!

And finally..... Congratulations to Hugh on ringing his 2.000th Quarter Peal at Marston on Sunday 20th March. 927 of these have been rung on the Marston bells.
